Are you having a hard time finding the right people with the right skills for your organization? Consider hiring people with disabilities.

Did you know that one in five Americans has a disability? People with disabilities possess skills and experiences that offer employers a competitive edge by bringing creativity, problem solving and commitment to the workplace.

When it comes to recruiting and hiring people with disabilities, many companies aren't sure where to start. That's where the Employer Assistance and Resource Network on Disability Inclusion, or EARN for short, can help.

AskEARN.org is a free resource of the U.S. Department of Labor's Office of Disability Employment Policy. It's THE go-to, trusted source for all employers offering tools to help them recruit, hire, retain and advance qualified people with disabilities.

Go to AskEARN.org to find resources to help your business create a more diverse workplace by hiring people disabilities, and connect with organizations to find highly qualified job candidates with disabilities, including disabled veterans.

You can access EARN's Online Training Center, Inclusion@Work Framework for building a disability-inclusive workplace and webinars on disability employment topics.

Employers can also learn about laws and regulations, such as the Americans with Disabilities Act; workplace accessibility and accommodations; and much more.
